Orrin Howell, the genial proprietor of Duncan springs, was in town during the week and left for home today.

Hud Thomas closed his school at Tichenor, Navarro flat, last week, and is spending his vacation in this city.

Rufus Lucas formerly of this city, is now at Dyea, working for the Chilcoot Pass Tramway company. He will go to Dawson city in the spring.

Miss Lillian Young, after a two weeks' visit with her cousins, Rev. D. Bauer and wife of Cloverdale, will spend a month with relatives in San Francisco and San Jose.

Constable Pat Connolly of Navarro brought Eric Mikla over from that place Monday. Mikla is a Russian and was committed to the asylum by Judge Mannon.

William Barker, brother of J. H. Barker of this city, was crossing Chilcoot pass at last accounts. He is bringing his Klondike with him to Dawson City in the shape of about 2000 dozen hen's eggs.

Lucine Fulwider of San Francisco has secured a position in the railway mail service. Mr. Fulwider is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Nate Waltrip, and is a very competent and popular young man.

H. A. Jarvis of Surry, Maine, died at his home in that place last week. The deceased was the father of H. H. Jarvis, the wellknown merchant of Mendocino, and was 75 years of age at the time of his death.

Mrs. Dollie Edwards gave a birthday party Saturday evening in honor of Miss Francis Pressley of the asylum. A small but merry party extended congratulations to the young lady and wished her a bon voyage.

Homer P. Ritter, the stellar expert, is in town to complete the work started by Mr. Sinclair. The work of observation is progressing rapidly, and it will not be long before the citizens of Ukiah will know exactly where the're at.

John Busch of Oaksdale, Wash., came down from his northern home the early part of the week. Mr. Busch is an extensive wheat farmer of Washington, and raised an enormous crop this year. He is on a visit to relatives in Potter valley.

Charles A. Harman and Miss Elizabeth Delany, both of Laytonville, were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Henry Poe, Thanksgiving day, Judge Stoughton officiating. After the ceremony the bridal party participated of an excellent dinner.

It appears that the Point Arena boys were the victors in the football game at that place last week, and not the Mendocino eleven, as originally telephoned from the coast. The score stood 26 to 24 in their favor, the error having occurred through a misunderstanding of the rules.

The members of the Ukiah glee club tendered their leader, Mrs. H. L. Eastman, a reception at her residence Saturday evening last. Music and games were thoroughly enjoyed by the merry party, who partook of delicious refreshments and then as the small hours drew near took their departure.

Civil Service Examination.

A civil service examination will be held at the local asylum tomorrow for internes and attendants, both male and female. The examination will be held under the supervision of the chief of the commission in lunacy, the superintendent of the local institution and one member of the board of managers. The idea is to afford all those who desire to obtain positions as attendants an opportunity to prove their qualification and thus place themselves in line for appointment.

OUTRE OCCURRENCES.

FUNNY FREAKS AND PECULIAR HAPPENINGS.

Weekly Budget of Things Which Take Place Without Apparent Provocation. Incidents and Accidents Due to Planetary Influences.

The mystery of the murder of the late J. R. Barnett seems impossible of solution. Ever since the commission of that most atrocious crime every clew that promised to lead to the discovery of the dastardly assassins has been followed, but in vain.

Last week THE PRESS contained a circumstantial detail of the robbery of H. L. Hensley in the outskirts of this city. The following day a young man named Archie Layton was held up about a mile below town by a brace of footpads, and it was only by the greatest of good luck that he escaped being robbed. He was driving home in a buggy, and when near the racetrack he was commanded to halt. The horse he was driving became frightened, however, and to this circumstance he owes his escape. The horse ran away, and his course was accelerated by bullets fired from the revolvers of the outlaws.

These two bandits, as nearly as a description can be obtained, were of identically the same method as those who held up Hensley.

Sunday night the merry highwaymen were again on the road. Claude Van Voast was returning to his home in the western part of town. When near the grammar school he was requested to stop by a couple of disguised road agents.

Van Voast, however, is of a slightly obstinate disposition, and being something of an athlete and blessed with a pair of lengthy and reliable legs, he decided to make a run for it. He hitched up his trousers, and in a moment all the astonished outlaws were able to discern was a circular hole in the atmosphere. It was merely a whish! and their intended victim had vanished.

These numerous and decidedly nervy attempts at robbery lead irresistibly to the conclusion that when the murderers of Barnett are discovered the officers will also have captured the authors of the recent attempts at outlawry.

The Clothes-Pin Peddler.

About two months ago a man named William Allen hired a wagon and harness from Robert Briggs of the old New England stables. Allen stated that he was going on a peddling trip through the lower end of the valley, having purchased an elegant line of clothes-pins which he desired to dispose of. Time passed on, but Briggs heard nothing from the borrower of his wagon. He therefore began an investigation, which resulted in the discovery that Allen was somewhere in Marin county, having evidently forgotten the ownership of the wagon and harness. Mr. Briggs therefore secured a warrant for his arrest and left Monday in pursuit of the delinquent. Allen was found just across the Sonoma county line, in Marin. Briggs recovered his property, but as the wife of the peddler was ill he decided to leave Allen at home until the woman shall have recovered, when he will be brought up here for trial.

A Young Lady Deported.

In April last a Mexican young lady, Senorita Juana Canovera, arrived in San Francisco from San Jose del Gato, Lower California. She was a country girl and unused to modern civilization; consequently the sights she saw excited her imagination and wonder to such an extent that she became insane. She had been imported by a lady in San Francisco, and was to be employed as a domestic. She was but 17 years of age, and when her condition was observed after her arrival she was committed to the local asylum for treatment. After remaining in that institution until Saturday last she was declared competent and discharged. The commissioner of immigration at San Francisco, however, ordered the young lady deported, and yesterday she was placed aboard the steamship Orizaba and sent back to her home.

Accidently Wounded.

Merton Youde and Louis Muir were out gunning Friday last, and the latter young gentleman met with an accident which may result in permanent injury. In some manner, at present unexplained, young Murr's gun was discharged and the contents of the weapon tore through his ankle. The young fellow is but fourteen years of age, but he bore the painful wound with all the grit of one of Napoleon's old guard. Medical assistance was summoned and the hurt was attended to with all possible skill, so the young fellow is getting along nicely.

The Writ Dismissed.

The writ of habeas sworn out last week and make returnable before Judge Mannon Monday was dismissed. The petitioner was J. R. Banks of Hopland, who alleged that his son, Lester Banks, was illegally restrained of his liberty by Ernest Winkler and wife. According to the return made by Winkler the boy in question had never been in his custody. It seems to have been a plain case of runaway.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

The Entertainment Wednesday Night Well Attended.

The entertainment given by Yokia Camp, Woodmen of the World, Wednesday evening was a success in every particular. The hall was simply crowded, and the committee was compelled to make a raid on Neighbor Eversole's place and carry away every spare chair.

Neighbor Pemberton was chairman of the meeting. After apologies to the audience for an unfortunate accident which had interfered somewhat with the musical part of the program, he gave a short recital of the organization and standing of Yokia Camp, claiming that while it was small in numbers, it was big in the class of membership. "Quality we have," he said, "and it's quantity of the same kind we're after."

He then introduced Neighbor G. K. Rogers of Oakland, who held the audience's close attention for about fifty minutes, and at the end of his talk was roundly applauded. Whilst he rapped the insurance managers over the knuckles, his was such a broad fraternal talk that it was hard to tell what particular fraternity he represented. "Christianity is not bounded by any church, fraternity is not limited to any order," he said, and hewing true to those lines he made every fraternal man feel like taking up the work for his order with renewed spirit.

Neighbor Poage then read a beautiful and touching poem entitled, The Story of Woodcraft, which was highly appreciated, and brought tears to the eyes of many.

The Choral society of ten voices then gave a beautiful number and was roundly encored, but owing to lack of musical support were compelled to decline.

The log-sawing contest was next in order. The log was a green fir about 13 inches in diameter. The contesting teams were Neighbors J. R. Thomas and M. B. Gibson vs Bert Thomas and C. A. Poage. The contest was won by the first team in one minute, forty-five seconds.

Mrs. Robinson won the nail-driving contest by driving ten nails into the log in twenty-six seconds. It had been announced that the lady striking her thumb the hardest would receive the prize, but they all proved too expert with the hammer and Neighbor Pemberton was compelled to decide that "no bruised thumb, no prize."

After this came the log-rolling. Nine logs were rolled into camp and the Woodmen say they have as many more on the skids, which will be taken into the mill at an early date. Altogther the occasion was a most enjoyable one, and as this is a great social order, the Neighbors promise another treat in the near future.

A Party at Talmage.

TALMAGE, December 1.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Tindall was the scene of much enjoyment Saturday night at their residence near Talmage, the eighteenth birthday of their daughter, Miss Callie, being the honored occasion. Games and songs ruled the evening, and as the old clock was striking midnight we heard the tender words which came from the lips of our charming hostess, "take your partners for supper." After we had comfortably seated ourselves around a table loaded down with delicacies, we were entertained for a few minutes by the pleasing words of B. Bennado. When we had done full justice to the elegant supper, we donned our wraps, and with much reluctance bid our fair hostess goodnight, wishing her a long life full of many such happy events. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Willis Shields, Mr. and Mrs. George Hildreth, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Tindall, Misses Louisa Hillman, Callie and Minnie Tindall, Minnie Clark, Addie Averill, Hazel Kister, Lula Howell, Daisy Smith, Messrs Charles Clark, Louis and Joe Hildreth, Bert Van Nader, Charles and Johnnie Hoffman, Clyde and Harry Kister, Frank Averill, Henry Waugh, Johnnie Tindall. ONE WHO WAS PRESENT.

BEAR HARBOR CRIME

STEVEN MEANS DELIVERED TO THE SHERIFF.

A Resume of the Evidence Adduced at the Preliminary Examination—No One Saw the Fatal Blow Struck—Hacked His Own Clothes.

Steven Means, who is charged with the murder of Henry Sulin at Bear Harbor on the 16th ult., was brought over and lodged in the local jail Sunday last by Constable Stevenson.

The preliminary examination was held before Justice Dunn of Westport, and the defendant was held to answer without bail.

From the evidence adduced at the hearing the affair seems considerably involved. From the testimony of half a dozen witnesses it seems that a raised draft on the local bank passed between the deceased and Means, and each accused the other of having been guilty of the crime.

According to the stories told Means was sitting at the supper-table in the Bear Harbor Lumber company's dining-room, when Sulin entered and took a seat at the table opposite the prisoner.

Finally Sulin arose with a fork in his hand and Means then got up and the assault took place. After the stabbing, which none of those present aver to have seen, Sulin walked from the kitchen and fell to the ground about forty feet from the spot where the assault was committed.

Only one witness testified to having seen a weapon in Means' hand. J. W. Armstrong declares that after the stabbing took place Means accompanied him some distance up the railroad track. Armstrong asserts that on the way up Means pulled out a dirk and with it slashed his own clothes in several places. When asked by Armstrong why he did so Means replied that "He must make a showing," as he expected to be arrested at any minute.

Sulin was completely disemboweled, but lived fifteen hours after the assault.

Means is said to be well thought of in southern Humboldt, and several merchants of Briceland are said to be willing to qualify as his bondsmen.

Fixing the Longitude.

Homer P. Ritter of the coast and geodetic survey arrived in this city Monday. He was detailed to exchange stations with Mr. Sinclair, who is now working at the San Francisco end. All it requires to complete the observations preparatory to the establishment of the exact longitude of this city is four clear days at each end of the line. There is about three minutes difference in time between this city and San Francisco, and it is to definitely establish the exact distance west of Ukiah that the present work was inaugurated. The manner in which this distance is arrived at is delicate and interesting. Twenty stars are taken, and ten of these are observed by each of the astronomers and the exact time these stars pass the hair in the telescope is noted by each observer. The indicated time at the passage of the heavenly bodies is then compared, and the difference gives the time. The other ten stars are then taken and the former observations compared and verified. The latitude of Ukiah, as roughly computed by Mr. Sinclair, is 39 degrees and 9 minutes. This is approximate, as it may vary a few seconds on verification.

Supervisors on Trial.

The trial of the board of supervisors for misdemeanor in office is now in progress before Judge Burnett of Sonoma county and a jury. Following are the jurymen: M. V. Smith, J. N. Hixon, John Balfour, Grant Vassar, A. H. Witherell, A. C. Huntley, Henry Smith, J. E. Lowery, J. G. Short, Albert Schiller, John Dickey and Thomas Cook. At the present rate of progress it will require about a week to hear the case.

Alba Heywood, the prince of comedians, who gave such a splendid entertainment here in 1891, is coming. That means fun by the ton, laughs galore, beautiful music and a delightful time all around. The press comments tell us that Heywood is funnier than ever, and that his work is all new, and his company strong and well balanced. It is with a keen anticipation of pleasure we await the appearance of this company, for with Heywood's name there always goes a guarantee of something good. He will be seen here on the evening of December 15 next, when he will appear under the auspices of the local lodge of Foresters. Seats on sale at Kent & Young's.

THOUSANDS PERISH.

A Typhoon Does Deadly Work in the Phillippine Islands.

One of the worst storms known to that storm-swept section of the globe struck the Phillippine islands October 12th. Whole towns and villages have disappeared and portions of the coast are completely submerged. The storm entered Samar and devastated the southern portion of that island, and continued on with its work of destruction until October 18th, when it spent itself at Hoihou across the China sea. It is reported that the town of Hernani, in Samar, which contained 6000 souls, has altogether disappeared, and at another large town only three houses remain. No accurate account of the damage done to the other islands has been received, but at Tacloban, the capital of Leyte, everything has been destroyed and the whole town has been converted into one mass of ruins. It is difficult to estimate the exact number of lives lost, but 120 corpses of Europeans were buried and as many more have disappeared. The natives suffered severely and over 600 corpses have been found. No estimate can be made of the dead, but the figures will probably reach into the thousands.

Press Women of Louisiana.

The press women of Louisiana are generously recognized by their brothers of the fourth estate. At the annual meeting of the New Orleans Press club, recently held, it was voted to admit women to membership. Speaking of this, The Daily Picayune says:

"The women engaged on the newspapers in New Orleans are perhaps not the least among the great body of workers, and it was a gracious recognition of their worth to accord them membership in the great newspaper league. It is said that the New Orleans Press club is the first in the country to admit women to membership. The act was characteristic of the well known chivalry of our southern craft. The newspaper women of New Orleans certainly appreciate the compliment extended, and in the press club, as on the press, will give of their best for its success and development."

SHOES CAME BACK.

HOW MR. AND MRS. ALGERNON SMITH DISPOSED OF A NUISANCE.

They Couldn't Sell the Things, Couldn't Give Them Away and Were Not Permitted to Lose Them—Finally Smith Thought of the Furnace, and All Is Well.

A rag peddler was slowly passing Mrs. Algernon Smith's house when that good woman hailed him.

"How much for old shoes?"

"Helluv a cent a pount for vool an cotton. I gan't puy ole shoes."

"But won't you give me something for them?"

"Any iron or pottles you vant to sell, lady? You vant to sell dose t'ings vat you haf on? Helluv a cent a pount. I gan no more gif. I vant not dose shoes, not for nottings. Nottings else?"

Mrs. Smith indignantly closed the window. When her husband came home at night, she said:

"Algernon, I want you to take a lot of old shoes I've done up in a package and throw them away."

"Why don't you give them to the washerwoman?" asked Mr. Smith.

"She won't have them—says they're not her kind of shoes," was the answer. "They are all either too large or too small, the heels are too high, and they are the wrong number. I offered them to a tramp, and he said when he went into the shoe business he would let me know—he wasn't buying misfits yet."

"I like his impudence. Where are they? I'll make short work of them," said Mr. Smith, and he took the big bundle his wife gave him and went out. In 15 minutes he was back.

"So you got rid of them," said his wife joyfully. "I think there was an accumulation of six years in that lot. Some of them I had given to people who were begging at the door, but I always found them again next day in the lot. Old shoes are like cats, if you send them away they always come back."

"The cat won't come back this time," said her husband. "I dumped them in a vacant lot and ran. After this when you buy a pair of new shoes leave your old ones at the store."

Next morning as Mrs. Smith was doing her housework the door bell rang.

"I guess maybe you've had a burglary," said the cheery voice of a man who stood on the steps and seemed in a hurry. "I found this bundle, with your name and address on it, when I was looking over my lot today."

Mrs. Smith took the bundle and feebly thanked him. When Algernon came home, she told him. He said there were more ways of killing a cat than of choking her with butter, and after supper he took up the bundle and went out.

He knew of a nice dark place down near a church where he could slide in and drop that load of shoes without being seen. He had taken the precaution to tear off the address and had changed the shape of the bundle. As he deposited it in the archway of this dark corner a heavy hand was laid on his shoulder.

"No, you don't. No abandonment of the little innocent when you get tired of your own flesh and blood. Pick up the poor thing now or I'll club ye."

It was the new policeman on that beat, and he didn't know Mr. Smith. He listened to his explanation with a most aggressive and unbelieving air.

"Lemme see the kid," he demanded, and when the "kid" proved to be kid shoes he grew still angrier.

"I've a mind to run ye in for disturbing the peace and resisting an officer," he said, but finally permitted Smith to take his bundle and go home.

The next night a smudge came out of the Smiths' chimney, and the neighbors held their noses. About midnight a loud rapping was heard at the front door, and a light in the basement was hastily extinguished. Mr. Smith answered the summons, while Mrs. Smith hid in the coal cellar. A patrol wagon full of policemen was at the door. One of them was on the stops.

"Are you running a glue factory here without a license?" he demanded of Smith.

"Then what is that infernal odor? Your neighbors have telephoned that you were making yourself a nuisance and want you abated."

Smith took the crowd in and told his story—how they had put those shoes in the garbage box and had them turned out again and how they had tried to sell them or give them away and finally to lose them. Then he showed the police to the basement and opened the door of the furnace, where the shoes were being cremated. Then he produced some bottles with long necks that were sent for his birthday, and for half an hour he was busy pulling corks. After some time he released Mrs. Smith from the coal cellar.

"Are they gone?" she gasped.

"The police?"

"No, no; the shoes."

"Every scrap reduced to ashes."

They embraced, and happiness reigned in the Smith household. — Chicago Times-Herald.

Two Cities.

The following announcement is posted in the Boston street cars: "The board of health hereby adjudges that the deposit of 'sputum' in street cars is a public nuisance, a source of filth and cause of sickness, and hereby orders that spitting on the floor of any street car be and hereby is prohibited." The following sign appears in the street cars of New York city: "Spitting on the floor of this car is positively prohibited." Gotham and the Hub have different ways of arriving at the same statement.—Electrical Review.

The best theaters in Australia are usually built on English plans, but are managed more like American playhouses. The prices charged are much less than those cheerfully paid in England. Dress circle seats or "stalls," which bring $2.50 in London, will not sell for more than $1.25 in Melbourne or Sydney.

Women and Men's Clothes.

Ouida believes that, instead of going into society, women would be better employed in applying their minds to "dressing themselves, their children and their men." She says in The Cosmopolitan:

"I do not think men would long resist a feminine effort on the part of women to introduce some better male costume than that which at present makes the streets and the drawing rooms alike hideous—that is, if the effort were general, sustained and persuasive. The trouser is the culminating point in modern male attire of ugliness, indecency, unsuitability and antihygienic stupidity. The chimney pot is the more ludicrous, but I think the trouser is the more odious portion of masculine clothing. It would make a guy of Apollo's self."

It would be interesting to know what most men would say to the proposition that their wives design the clothes they should wear. Imagine the predicament of an æsthetic wife with a taste for mauve spike tails and a refractory husband with a horror of attracting notice. The number of complications is too horrifying to contemplate. Ouida is quite right about the trouser, but a mind built to dwell upon flounces and toques—would it be entirely safe to trust such a mind with the grim problem of the trouser, the baggy vest, the stern silk hat?

It is doubtful. Best leave man's garments to the tailors—and to the bicycle, which is already doing a great work in exterminating the hated trouser.—Philadelphia Times.

Railway Vibration.

Annoyance and temporary discomfort are small items in the schedule of ills chargeable to vibration and noise on railways and the unceasing and terrific racket of many of our cities. The noise of the elevated railways has caused convulsions in children and what is equivalent to nightmare in adults. One lady of somewhat delicate organization has frequently sprung from her bed on the approach of a train and found herself standing upright in the middle of the floor when she awakened. It seemed that the engineer on this train had a sweetheart living in that neighborhood, and he managed so that the locomotive made a series of peculiar noises whenever he approached the dwelling of his inamorata. This was the only train that so affected the sufferer, and she was obliged to leave the neighborhood on account of it. In ordinary railway travel, speed is the most important item to be looked after, and the noise attending the great rapidity with which the train moves is really a secondary consideration. Medical scientists who are giving attention to this subject are beginning to demand for their patients, especially those who find it necessary to take long journeys for their health, accommodations in which due regard is had for quiet and freedom from that vibration which affects the nervous system. Special routes are mapped out and certain lines are avoided because of the irritation by the clatter and swinging of the trains.—New York Ledger.

Love Sifted Down.

A certain learned judge in New York (all judges are learned) handed down this opinion the other day along with some sage counsel to a poor man who had been contemplating the illegal act known as felo de se, or self slaughter. "Don't get so melancholy and love sick about a woman," said the judge, speaking as one having experience and authority. "There are others. Love doesn't amount to much when you sift it down."

A Corroborated Criticism.

"What the piece needs," said the man who volunteers advice, "is more atmosphere."

"That's exactly what I said," replied the manager. "I told the leading lady yesterday that when she plays that part she ought to put on more airs."—Washington Star.

JUDGE FIELD RETIRES

MAKES A RECORD FOR LONG SERVICE ON THE BENCH.

Attorney-General McKenna to Succeed Him — Both Men Well-Known to Californians — McKenna's Successor Not Yet Definitely Decided Upon.

The resignation of Associate Justice Stephen J. Field of the United States supreme court, which was tendered sometime ago to take effect December 1st, has been accepted and the veteran judge is now on the retired list, having broken all records for length of service upon the bench. Field has been eligible for retirement for a long time, but wished to break the record before he retired. On August 16th last he did so, as it was on that day he exceeded the term of service of 34 years, five months and six days to the credit of Chief Justice Marshall, whose services up to that time had been the longest in the court. The total length of Field's services is 34 years, seven months and 20 days. Under the law Justice Field will receive the full salary of an associate justice of the United States supreme court—$10,000 per year—for the remainder of his life.

When Judge McKenna took the office of attorney-general it was the understanding that he was to be appointed to the first vacancy that would occur on the supreme bench, and his nomination for the office by the president will be among the first sent to congress for confirmation.

The president has tendered William R. Day, now first assistant secretary of state, the position of attorney-general, to succeed Joseph McKenna. Judge Day will accept the place, unless Secretary Sherman should resign, thereby permitting his first assistant to become head of the state department.

Attorney-General McKenna will not be appointed to the vacancy on the bench until it has been determined which of the two cabinet portfolios shall be given to Judge Day. Judge Day prefers to be secretary of state, but will not refuse the attorney-generalship.

How Bad It Ached.

A dear little boy about 4 years old had the toothache. But he had a great deal of self control. Although he was so little, he was a very brave boy. He sat upon mamma's bed, not saying a word, although one could tell by his dismal expression how much he suffered.

Mamma was very sorry.

"Does your tooth hurt so very much, Earlo?" she asked.

"Hurt!" he exclaimed. "You bet it hurts! It just beats the cars, mamma."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased the power that rules over the destinies of this world, to remove from our membership our beloved brother and subchief ranger, Thomas Parten; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Court Lagninita has lost in Brother Parten a most faithful and efficient member; and, be it

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Parten his family have lost a faithful and indulgent husband and father; and, be it

Resolved, That the charter of this court be draped in mourning for a period of three months, and that each member wear his badge draped in mourning for the same period; and, be it

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, and that a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

Committee: CHARLES WHITED, O. T. WELLS, T. G. COOK.

When a man owns a blooded horse he is always careful of its health. He looks after its diet and is particular that the feeding shall be regular and right. While he is doing this it is likely as not that he is himself suffering from some disease or disorder. When the trouble gets so bad that he cannot work, he will begin to give himself the care he gave the horse at the start. Good pure, rich, red blood is the best insurance against disease of any kind. Almost all diseases come from impure or impoverished blood. Keep the blood pure and strong and disease can find no foothold. That is the principle upon which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery works. It cleanses, purifies and enriches the blood, puts and keeps the whole body in perfect order; makes appetite good, digestion strong, assimilation perfect. It brings ruddy, virile health. It builds up solid, wholesome flesh (not fat) when, from any cause, reduced below the healthy standard.

Evolution of Sleeves.

It is said that in woman's dress the sleeve has undergone greater changes than any other portion of her clothing. In England, after the Saxon invasion, the sleeve first began to assume definite shape, and through the centuries became long, short, pendulous, puffed, tight, full, capped or cuffed. The tight ones were so tight they had to be buttoned from shoulder to wrist. A certain kind of tight sleeve with open pendent ones hanging from the shoulder was a very ornamental style. These sleeves may be seen on the fine bronze figure of Edward III's daughter on one side of his tomb in Westminster abbey.

It seems as if we are now approaching the evolution of this hanging sleeve again. It has commenced at the shoulder, where deep frills stand out like angels' wings over a tight sleeve. It is probable that in a season or two more the frill will have descended to the wrist and changed somewhat in shape. It is to be hoped that the concessions due to our advancing civilization will be observed in these mutations, so that the comfort and convenience demanded by modern life may not fail to be maintained. Really, the sleeves of this season have run so much to frills and puffs that these lines written in 1753 seem quite appropriate now:

Let your gown be a sack, blue, yellow or green,
And frizzle your elbows with ruffles sixteen.

GOLD AT RED MOUNTAIN.

Tom Quartz Says the Hills Are Full of the Yellow Metal.

CUMMINGS, December 1.—Is there gold in Red mountain? Is the question asked by every one living in northern Mendocino and southern Humboldt. It can be truthfully said that there is, and plenty of it, if the assay offices of San Francisco can be relied upon; notwithstanding the wise and suspicious looks of some of our old mossbacks, who are not able to distinguish gold from brass, unless it is in pure nuggets.

There have been many assays from Red mountain the past six months and they have all been remarkable assays for surface rock. The rock has been taken from various parts of the district and the assays have been from $10 to $64 per ton.

The formation is a white and blue quartz mixed with a decomposed oxidized iron ore, very heavily charged with sulphates which contains the gold. It will cost a vast amount of money to develop the mines. It will be necessary to erect both quartz mills and smelters.

The Eureka company have a portable sawmill in course of construction. They have incorporated and their property is not for sale. They have made a preliminary survey for a road to Usal, which they hope to complete by May. Mining men say that with treatment and transportation facilities, the new district will open up into a mineral belt second to none in the country. TOM QUARTZ.

"And then I think of one who in
Her youthful beauty died,
The fair, meek blossom that grew up
And faded by my side.
In the cold, moist earth we laid her
When the forests cast the leaf,
And we wept that one so lovely
Should have a life so brief;
Yet not unmeet it seemed that one,
Like that young friend of ours,
So gentle and so beautiful,
Should perish with the flowers."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
